Wind-driven woods fires brush Cedar Point homes

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Some 60 homes were threatened by a woods fire in the Cedar Point area Monday. The fire was driven by a 20-30 mile-per-hour wind gusts which continuously change directions according to firemen and residents. The fire was in a large square bounded by Dunbar and Engman Avenues and Felicity and Thomas Streets.

"Bay St. Louis had two fire trucks and eight of our ten regular firemen on the scene and one left in the station with our third engine in case of another fire," Fire Chief Andrew Lizana reports.

Waveland Fire Chief Kenny Fayard, and members of the Hancock Firemen's Association were among the 20 fighting to control the fire. Waveland had a small pumper which was used to protect homes in the area.

Numerous volunteers and residents also helped battle the wild fire which was difficult to control because of location and its threat to homes on several streets at the same time, ac-

BaySide woman charged in arson

By RICH ADAMS

A BaySide Park woman was arrested this week by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department in connection with three woods fires in that subdivision.

Elaine Bernard, 34, Rt. 2 Box 607M, was arrested Tuesday after allegedly setting fire to a wooded area on US-90 near Granny's Lounge, according to Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson.

Peterson explained that Bernard is a former mental patient and said his office must determine whether she is competent to stand trial.

Bernard confessed to setting previous fires in the same area of BaySide Park, but added she was unable to extinguish a blaze Tuesday which threatened two homes in that area.

"We released her under a $500 bond and have slated a March 12 hearing before Justice Court Judge Lee Klein," the sheriff said Wednesday.

Peterson said Bernard was apprehended by Deputies Ronnie Cuevas and Steve Landry.

Wilkinson to chair AFT meet

Bay St. Louis Junior High teacher Andrews Wilkinson, president of the Bay St. Louis Local, American Federation of Teachers, is chairman of the Mississippi AFT's sixth annual convention slated March 12-14 in Biloxi. Theme of this year's event to be headquartered at Biloxi Howard Johnson Motor Lodge is "Teacher Activism: Key To Better Education in Mississippi."

Wilkinson said each year members suggest a theme about which "the

Sylvan Ladner hospitalized

By RICH ADAMS

Former Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner Jr., 64, was listed in "fair condition" at Hancock General Hospital Wednesday where he was admitted after complaining of chest pains earlier this week.

Hospital Administrator Harry Gilmore said Ladner was admitted to the hospital Monday at 7:30 p.m. after he complained of chest pains and pain in his left arm.

Ladner was admitted to the intensive care unit of the hospital where he has been listed in fair condition since Monday.

Ladner served as Hancock County sheriff for 16 years prior to advice from doctors he not seek re-election to that post.

Ladner was defeated in a bid for a seat on the Hancock County Board of Supervisors last year.

He was named an honorary deputy by Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson.

Area homes studied for historical grants

By RICH ADAMS

A 200-year-old Bay St. Louis home and a house in Pass Christian which was part of the Asmar Land Grant are among five properties under early consideration for grant-in-aid restoration loans from the Mississippi Department of Archives and History. The 'Old Spanish House' or 'Customs House' at 707 Hancock Street in Bay St. Louis, owned by Dr. and Mrs. Robert P. Akers is among the first homes to be considered this year for the low-interest loans, according to Yvonne Williams, grants administrator for the Division of Historical Preservation.

The home is considered to be one of the oldest structures in the Mississippi Delta.

A home in Pass Christian, owned by Edalee Dubisson, is also under consideration for a loan to renovate the historic structure, Ms. Williams reported.

Ms. Williams said Monday ap-

Deputies cite 23 for illegal tags

By RICH ADAMS

Hancock County Sheriff's deputies ticketed 23 drivers for out-of-state or expired license tags Tuesday in the first of a series of roadblocks intended to crackdown on illegal tags.

Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson reported Deputy Fairley Necaise and Investigators Delbert Seay and Alvin Ladner ticketed the 23 motorists during a roadblock Tuesday on Dunbar Avenue near North Bay Elementary School.

Despite the success of his first attempt to force county residents to purchase legal tags, Peterson said Wednesday the process "is just beginning."

"This will be a long, drawn out process that will not take place in just one or two weeks," the sheriff said Wednesday.

"This is a big county, and we will be checking for illegal tags at different locations in the county over the next few months," he explained.

"We have a long way to go yet," he added.

Peterson said the main reason his department is conducting the roadblocks is to force county residents to obtain local license tags.

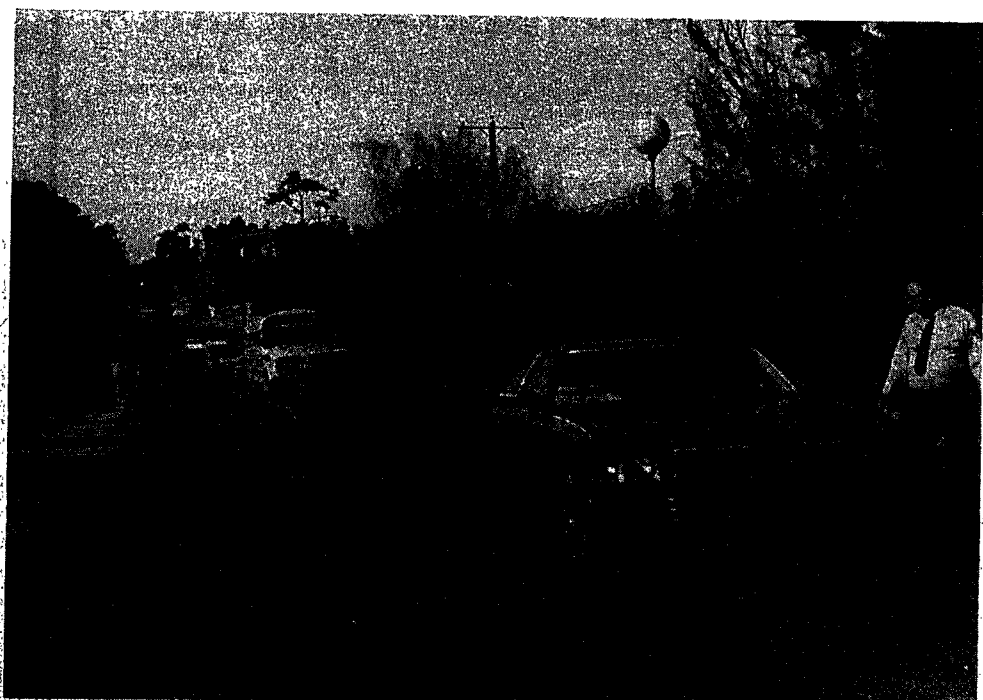

"The big problem is that in Louisiana a person can buy a two-year tag for $8," Peterson said.

"Here the tax collector will charge more, according to the weight and model of the vehicle," he continued.

"The law states that if a person lives in Hancock County, that person must purchase tags in Hancock County," Peterson explained.

"A lot of people think they can buy Louisiana plates because that is where they work, but that is not what the law says," he added.

Peterson said a roadblock is scheduled today, but would not divulge the location.

ROADBLOCK—A line of traffic extends down Dunbar Avenue near North Bay Elementary School Tuesday as Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Fairley Necaise checks for out-of-state or expired license tags. Necaise and Investigators Delbert Seay and Alvin Ladner inspected cars in the first of a series of roadblocks ordered by Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson in an attempt to force county residents to purchase Hancock County tags. 23 citations were issued Tuesday by Seay, Necaise, and Ladner. (Staff photo-Rich Adams)

Food stamp cutoff possible in June

By RICH ADAMS

Some 20 million Americans, including 4,169 Hancock County residents, could have their food stamp benefits suspended June 1 unless legislative action is taken to assist the U.S. Department of Agriculture's floundering food stamp program, according to U.S. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

In a letter to governors of the fifty states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. territories, Bergland said he has advised Congress funds for food stamp benefits will be nearly gone by the end of May.

"Unless Congress appropriates additional funds by May 15, I will be forced to order a suspension of food stamp benefits effective June 1, 1980,"

Accident hospitalizes Breland

By WAYNE DUCOMB

William Breland, Merchant's Bank and Trust Company vice president and Waveland branch manager, was admitted Tuesday afternoon to Hancock General Hospital for treatment of leg and ankle injuries.

"Monday evening I was closing the doors at the Bay St. Louis bank branch when a ramp, which has to be lifted up before closing the door, fell back and hit me on my leg," Breland said Wednesday afternoon from his hospital room.

Breland also said during a 10 a.m. operation today an incision will be made in the bruise drawing fluid from the injury.

"As of this time we don't know the extent of injuries, but he's in the hospital for an undetermined time, in good condition and recuperating well," said Harry Gilmore, hospital administrator.

LET HOUSE CUT TAX BILL

Your home should be, besides your nest of dreams, an income tax saver. From the moment you take title to the day you turn over the key to the next inhabitants, you are endowed with opportunities to minimize your tax bill.

While you own the home, your two major annual deductions are property taxes and the interest on the mortgage. These can be considerable deductions.

Keep in mind that it doesn't matter whether you pay property taxes directly or through an escrow account held by the bank. In either case, you deduct the sum actually paid to the local taxing authority.

Also, using part of your home for business purposes constitutes a deduction for that portion of the home expenses used for the business. It is based on the square footage of space used for business. However, it must be used exclusively for business.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at PRESSMAN REALTY, 1332 Hwy. 90 W., Waveland. Phone 467-2224. We're here to help!

SSC star student, teacher named

LAWRENCE YARBOROUGH

Lawrence Yarborough, a senior at St. Stanislaus high school, has been elected as the school's Star Student by the Mississippi Economics Council's Student Teacher Achievement Recognition Program, according to SSC Principal Brother Eddar Crifasi.

The selection was based on the student's high scholastic average for the first semester and his score on the American College Test.

Brother Malcolm Melcher was designated the Star Teacher because in Yarborough's opinion he made the greatest contribution to his scholastic achievement.

Yarborough, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Yarborough of Pass Christian, is an alpha honor roll student and a member of the President's Honor Roll. He is also a member of the National Honor Society and the Spanish Honor Society.

BRO. MALCOLM MELCHER

In the recent State Science and Mathematics Tournament he placed in the top 10 percent in mathematics and in the top 3 percent in chemistry. He is the recipient of a Presidential Scholarship from Loyola University in New Orleans, Louisiana; and he plans to study engineering in college.

Brother Malcolm Melcher has been on the faculty of St. Stanislaus for ten years where he teaches chemistry, mathematics and oceanography. He received his bachelor's degree from Spring Hill College in Mobile, Alabama; and he earned a master's degree in chemical oceanography from Oregon State University.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gil Melcher of Gulf Shores, Alabama.

The efforts of the United States Hockey Team at the Winter Olympics have been the conversation piece since Sunday.

Never have we seen such enthusiasm in our county about something happening so many miles away.

In the grocery store, drug store, barber shop, service stations and even churches, everyone was discussing one subject and that was the Hockey Team.

The world conditions as they are today, it probably could not have happened at a better time.

In viewing the game on television, the Russian players seemed to be in a daze after the 4-3 loss to the Americans.

Our Community is foreign to ice hockey, but in hearing the residents talk about the big victory, one would think it was a game as popular as football or basketball.

In talking about the Winter Olympics, we must not forget the individual feat of speed skater Eric Heiden. He won a record number of five gold medals, something never achieved by an individual.

We realize Mark Spitz won more, but some of his were won in team efforts.

The Winter Olympics proved to be very successful for America, with the hockey victory and Heiden efforts.

High school basketball is about to be wrapped up for another year with the state finals remaining.

We would like to congratulate the Hancock North Central Hawkettes on being a contender again this year.

We wish them luck, and hope they bring it all back to Hancock County this year in State.

The coaches, players and supporters of the Hawkettes should all be commended.

At this time we would like to also express our appreciation to coaches, players and fans at all the schools in our area in relation to basketball programs.

It takes coaches and players, and very important, the supporters of the teams to make a basketball program work.

Activities in sports do not die with the finish of basketball, because baseball is now in full bloom.

We feel a lot more fan support could be given our local teams, especially when they play at home.

We cannot say the fans had any bearing on the United States Hockey team for sure, but we got the indication it helped tremendously.

We seem to have a one track mind this week in thinking about nothing but sporting events.

In all probability more persons are interested in sports than just about anything else.

A very popular school sport when we were coming up was boxing in Hancock County.

Boxing probably at time drew more folks than football games between the various schools.

Of course boxing was dropped around 1950 in our schools, but it is now on the come back after several efforts in previous years.

We hope some of you folks who remember the good old boxing days will support our local teams the next time they have an outing.

We now seem to receive more telephone calls about illegal dumping than other gripe from residents.

Instead of improving our ways in trying to keep our communities clean, we seem to be slipping.

We do not really know the answer to the serious problem and we hope someone will soon come up with an answer.

One thing we know for sure is that it will take a united effort on the part of all of us to cure the problem.

Help make our communities cleaner by disposing of your trash in a proper manner.

Only you can help!

State Health Board moves on hazardous waste threat

The people of Mississippi - a placid, dignified, beautiful state - have historically shown concern for protecting the public health and environment.

But expanding industrialization has resulted in a threat to the safety of health and natural resources. The threat is mismanagement of hazardous waste.

To promote public awareness of the challenges Mississippi faces in this critical area, the Mississippi State Board of Health will sponsor three public forums in key, population-industry centers of the state.

The forums are planned for March 10 at the City Auditorium in Columbus; March 12, Mississippi ETV Auditorium, Jackson; and March 18, Saenger Center, Hattiesburg.

Programs in each city will feature a new audiovisual presentation on hazardous waste. A panel representing public health, local government, a community interest group, and industry will comment on the problems and potentials of hazardous waste management; then the panel will answer questions from a team of local journalists.

The audience will have an opportunity to ask the panelists questions; technical information will be available from State Board of Health solid waste specialists.

Staff members of the agency's Division of Solid Waste Management are completing a second of hazardous waste management regulations.

Public hearings are tentatively scheduled for April, with the State Board of Health to consider adoption of the regulations at its June Meeting. If approved, the rules will be implemented at the same time the federal regulations become effective, probably in October.

The Resource Conservation and Recovery Act of 1976 placed the responsibility of regulating waste on the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Similarly, the 1979 session of the State Legislature called on the state Board of Health develop and implement a hazardous waste management program.

Mississippi's proposed hazardous waste regulations - the result of more than two years of analysis and consultation by the solid waste staff and interested, affected parties throughout the South and Southeast - give specific guidelines for hazardous waste generators, transporters, and owners-operators of facilities for the treatment, storage, or disposal of hazardous wastes.

The proposed regulations will provide for management "from the cradle to the grave."

The regulations are very technical, very restrictive. The management system will cost a lot of money, but it will provide - for the first time in Mississippi - protection of public health and the environment from mismanaged hazardous waste.

State Health Officer Dr. Alton B. Cobb said, "what we face in Mississippi and other parts of the nation is a massive task. Hazardous wastes are being generated in each state every day. They are a product of our way of life.

"We must develop and implement a management system that will give our industries access to an environmentally sound disposal facility at a minimum cost," he said.

"And we must give Mississippi people the assurance that hazardous waste will be managed in a manner safe for the public health and the environment," the doctor continued.

Mississippians, particularly those with interest in hazardous waste management, are encouraged to participate in any or all of the public forums in March.

Pre-registration is requested but not required; correspondence should be addressed to Hazardous Waste Awareness Program, Division of Solid Waste Management, Mississippi State Board of Health, P.O. Box 1700, Jackson, MS 39205.

LETTERS

To The Editor

Sun most appreciated after long days of rain

Dear Editor,
"The Way to Start a Day," was a wonderful way to remind us to appreciate the sun, particularly after three rainy days or a week of rain. It reminds me to a poem by Jean Kyler McManus—
"Live this day completely—use it well.
"Extract its treasures, they are yours to spend.
"They let us rise and greet the morning's freshness

With laughter in your hearts as well as prayer.
And savor every hour like carefree children. At ease within the safety of His care."
Thank you for the inspiring thought. We need more such thoughts in these trying times.

Sincerely,
Virginia Bird

Beauty of Easter Sunrise Service

available all year long

Dear Editor:
Thank you for sharing with your readers the beautifully worded message: THE WAY TO START A DAY. It appeared in your Thursday, February 21 issue on page 6.

To begin each day by greeting the sun with some sort of blessing is a wholesome acknowledgement that the sun is a powerful part of our Great Universe and was created by a Divine Intelligence.

That people from all parts of the world look East at the sunrise inspired the writing of that great classic, "The World is Waiting For the Sunrise," and shows that both music and sunrise are a part of our universal language.

It has long been a beautiful custom in this area to hold sunrise services at Easter.

The service is interdenominational involving Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Episcopalian and other faiths, and pointing out that while there may be differences in forms of worship there is a brotherhood in sharing a sunrise.

But why wait until Easter? We are privileged to watch a sunrise on every fair day, and while watching this un-failing miracle we can resolve to make this day "a good day for the sun to live in."

Have you the address of the author of The Way To Start A Day: I would like to express appreciation to Byrd Baylor.

'Hell no, we won't stow'

is nuclear dumping reaction

Editor and
People of Mississippi,
If our government would make a commitment to explore and exploit alternate energy sources, we would possibly have no need for future dumping sites of nuclear wastes.

Such will not be the case, it seems. By virtue of the fact that President Carter has voiced the need, he has made it obvious that if re-elected, he intends to administer to the "care and feeding" of further nuclear development.

Problem number one—Closer to home, we in Mississippi are facing the prospects of winning a federal BINGO game that we didn't buy cards for.

I am very pleased that Governor Winter plans to resist attempts to use the salt domes as a dumping ground. I applaud you, The Echo, for encouraging the people to show support for his line of action.

Maybe we should petition for a new state motto: "Hell No! We won't stow!"

Think of Mississippi, but please think of the future generations.

Respectfully,
Judith M. Wert

Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:
Thanks to you and your staff for the excellent coverage The Sea Coast Echo gave our recent economic symposium. Through the medium of our symposiums we hope that business, professional and interested people along our Gulf Coast area will become better informed on the various segments of economic life in our area which make up our total economy and affect the lives of all of us.

Your assistance in making the information provided by the speakers available to the general public is a service to the community and we are indeed grateful.

With kindest regards, we are

Congressman
THAD COCHRAN'S
Washington Report

Senator Thad Cochran said he will push for immediate floor action on a Senate Agriculture Committee bill to extend and improve an emergency farm loan program.

Senator Cochran and other committee members unanimously reported favorably the farm loan extension in response to tight credit conditions in many areas of the nation.

He said a coordinated effort with Senate and House leaders could result in the bill being passed and signed into law soon.

"It is important the we act promptly," Senator Cochran said of the legislation he is co-sponsoring, "because the current program expires May 15. Planting has already begun in some Southern areas and farmers in many parts of the country are experiencing difficulty in obtaining credit in order to plant their Spring crops."

The bill extends the emergency loan program, administered by the Farmers Home Administration, through September 30, 1981, and it expands the total lending authority by $2 billion—from $4 billion to $6 billion.

The emergency loan program was enacted by Congress in 1978 to help provide an additional source of operating credit for farmers and ranchers facing difficulties in obtaining financing from normal sources due to economic factors such as the general tightening of agricultural credit, high production costs, and low commodity prices.

Before approving the bill, the Senate committee adopted two amendments sought by the administration, to 1.) tie the loan interest rates to private money market rates, and to 2.) tighten requirements limiting the loans to farmers unable to secure credit from sources other than the Farmers Home Administration.

First-ever underwater photos on display at museum

MUSEUM EXHIBITS—These two photographs are part of a series of underwater photos taken by the U.S. Navy Oceanographic Research and Development Activity located at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County. The series is currently on exhibition at the New Orleans Museum of Art through April 6. The above photo, taken at 11,110 feet, shows how stalked deep-sea organisms permanently attach themselves to basaltic rock of an undersea extinct volcano. The photograph below, taken by remote controlled cameras, shows the characteristic pillow shape of molten rock extruded on to the ocean floor and cooled by sea water.

Deep Ocean Photography," an exhibition organized by the United States Navy and the New Orleans Museum of Art, will continue through April 6, at the museum in City Park.

The exhibition includes twenty-three photo murals revealing striking scenes of an extinct undersea volcano, examples of volcanic rock, the actual camera equipment used to acquire the photographs, and a three-dimensional model of a volcano known as the Gilliss Seamount.

The volcano rises from a depth of 16,500 feet to a height of 10,000 feet above the ocean floor northeast of Bermuda. "Deep Ocean Photography" was jointly produced by the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity (NORDA) and the Naval Oceanographic Office, both located at NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories near Bay St. Louis, in cooperation with Ms. Tina Freeman, Curator of Photography at the New Orleans Museum of Art.

NORDA and the Naval Oceanographic Office are involved with gathering information about the sea floor as part of their continuing oceanographic programs.

NORDA's mission is to produce new concepts of how the ocean functions, while the Naval Oceanographic Office gathers oceanographic data from around the world to aid fleet operations.

During a 1975 Navy expedition to explore the Gilliss Seamount in detail for the first time, Navy oceanographer Walter Jahn used a remote controlled deep ocean camera designed by him.

The photographs were taken at depths generally inaccessible to man and resulted in stark black and white representations of desolate sand banks of tumbled volcanic rock. The expedition is a notable example of conceptual photography.

Since Jahn could not compose the scenes viewed by the camera, he had to conceive what the film would show based on a profile of the contours of the sea floor supplied by shipboard bathymetric instruments.

The Walter Jahn photographs provided the Navy with first-hand observations of a seamount which could be obtained in no other way. The information gathered from the photography contributes to understanding how sound transmission is affected by deep oceanic geological formations and sediment.

The performance of sonar, for example, can be complicated by seamounts spread across the ocean bottom, which, if uncharted, create potential hazards for submarine navigation.

In conjunction with DEEP OCEAN PHOTOGRAPHY, on March 2 at 1:30 p.m. the New Orleans Museum of Art will present "Exploring the Deep Ocean Bottom," a film produced by the United States Navy, and at 3:00 p.m. "The Seafloor—Earth's Last Frontier," a lecture by Dr. Peter Fleisher.

Dr. Fleisher is a marine geologist at the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity. The film and lecture will be presented in the Museum's Stern Auditorium.

Junior Historical Society contest deadline nears

The deadline for entering the Mississippi Junior Historical Society annual essay contest is March 1, according to Dr. Jack W. Gunn of Delta State University.

Gunn, who serves as state sponsor, said five prizes ranging from $10 to $100 will be awarded to winning students in high school, and five additional prizes from $10 to $50 to junior high winners. Announcement of winners is made and the two top essays are read at the annual meeting of the Mississippi Junior Historical Society scheduled for 10:30 a.m. April 12, in the Old Capitol Museum at Jackson.

"The essay contest is a major thrust of the junior society, and the two top winners in each category have been published each year since 1961 in The Mississippi Junior Historian," Gunn said. The junior society is an affiliate of and supported by the Mississippi Historical Society.

Dr. Milton Wheeler, of William Carey College, Hattiesburg, is chairman of the Junior Historical Society committee of the Mississippi Historical Society.

Members of the junior society are welcome to attend without charge the meetings of the Mississippi Historical Society to be held in Gulfport March 7 and 8.

Additional information concerning the essay contest, the annual meeting of the Mississippi Junior Historical Society, or the annual meeting of the Mississippi Historical Society may be obtained from Gunn in care of Delta State, Cleveland, 38733.

Gulfport student wins legal secretary scholarship

The winner of the 1980 scholarship award presented by Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association in the sum of $500 is Lori Dillenbeck, a senior at Gulfport High School.

Miss Dillenbeck is a member of the National Honor Society, serves as a homeroom representative, teacher's aide and office aide. She received a literary letter in her freshman year and junior year, and received the DAR award in history during her junior year. She plans to attend Mississippi State University where she will major in business.

As winner of this award, Miss Dillenbeck is eligible for one of the $1,500.00 scholarships awarded by the National Association of Legal Secretaries.

Miss Dillenbeck is the daughter of Mrs. Marie Dillenbeck of Gulfport, who is the court reporter for Circuit Judge Kosta Vlahos.

Rose Marie Beaugez of Bay St. Louis High School placed second in the contest and Alicia Montgomery of Gulfport High School placed third. These students will be presented with a $25.00 savings bond and a certificate of award.

Judges for this year's contest were Honorable Edward O. Miller, attorney at law; Mrs. Diane Peranich of Security Savings and Loan Association; and Mrs. Sue Hargrove of Phillips College.

Winners in Mardi Gras float contest at North Bay Elementary February 13 have been reported this week.

First, second, and third place ribbons were awarded to winners in each grade.

The floats were constructed by the students using shoe boxes and decoration materials found around the house.

Judges for the contest were the Mayor Larry Bennett of Bay St. Louis, Mrs. Ruby Chapman, and the captain of the Nereids Carnival Association.

In conjunction with the contest, sixth grade students in Mr. Thaddeus Williams' fourth period class developed stories about the "History of Mardi Gras."

These stories were presented by the students to the North Bay Classes.

Winners of the Mardi Gras Float contest include: First Grade - Jeremy Finch, first place; Otis Bounds, second place; Kecia Walker, third place.

Second Grade - Ivo Reynolds, first place; Scott Kicklighter, second place; Lawrence O'Mara, third place.

Third Grade - Mickey Lagasse, first place; Tammy Ellis, second place; Albert Burke, third place.

Fourth Grade - Sonny Bailes, first place; Rhonda Bilbo, second place; Ronnie Peterson, third place.

Fifth Grade - Kim Koenig, first place; Christie Bilbo, second place; David Fricke, third place.

Sixth Grade - Wendy Ellis, first place; Mutakabbir Shabazz, second place; Dawn Lehto, third place.

Over-all winners were Ivo Reynolds and Sonny Bailes who received a special medallion.

Top prize for poetry is $1,000

A $1,000 grand prize will be awarded in a poetry competition sponsored by the World of Poetry, a quarterly newsletter for poets.

Poems of all styles and on any subject are eligible to complete for the grand prize or for 49 other cash or merchandise awards.

Says contest director, Joseph Mellon, "We are encouraging poetic talent of every kind, and expect our contest to produce exciting discoveries."

Rules and official entry forms are available from World of Poetry 2431 Stockton Blvd., Dept. N, Sacramento, California 95817.

Famous trumpeter slates appearance at Gulfport

Trumpeter Maynard Ferguson will appear at Gulfport High School Auditorium at 8 p.m. Monday. Ferguson has been described as "the musician with lavish energy and brass emotions, with spirit and loving care."

His band is young and vital and from distant parts of the world.

Ferguson is Canadian-born, from Quebec.

He came through Boyd Raeburn's Big Band, then Jimmy Dorsey's and Charlie Barnet's and Stan Kenton's until he formed his first American Band based at the famous Birdland.

His band was known as the Birdland Dream Band.

The sound of Ferguson's horn is easily recognizable. It is high and mighty, leading the charge, experimenting. It is alive in the pursuit of fresh musical expression, emotion, response - a form of presentation unmatched. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

Tornado Awareness Week includes practice alert

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County will participate with the National Weather Service in 'Tornado Awareness Week' activities according to Robert Boudin, County Civil Defense director.

Governor William Winter has proclaimed March 2-8 'Tornado Awareness Week' in Mississippi.

Boudin said his office has written letters asking schools, the county hospital, nursing homes, and day care centers to join civil defense in a tornado drill Wednesday.

The drill will held next Thursday if the state has bad weather Wednesday, according to Boudin.

"Tornadoes seem to be on the increase in Hancock County. We are in an awkward position as they usually move from the Southwest to the Northeast. We have very little chance of giving a warning as they usually come in from the water where there is no one to report them. When one hits in Hancock we warn the adjoining Counties and they have a little more time than us for preparations," Boudin lamented.

The week-long safety campaign is being coordinated by the National Weather Service, The Mississippi Civil Defense Council, and other agencies and is designed to alert Mississippians to the danger of all aspects of severe local storms, especially tornadoes.

A multi-state drill will be included among the week's activities. States other than Mississippi participating in drill are Arkansas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina. A practice tornado watch will be issued on Wednesday morning, probably around 9 a.m.

The watch, as in a real event, will be an alert that warnings are possible in the next few hours.

A practice tornado warning will be issued either later that morning or that afternoon, with the exact time left unannounced.

"The purpose of the drill is to give residents of Mississippi and other southern states an opportunity to see if they can hear a warning in time and know what to do," said Tice Wagner of the National Weather Service, meteorologist in charge of the drill.

"We hope everyone in Mississippi will take this drill seriously," Wagner said.

Mississippi leads all other states in tornado-related deaths. Tornadoes have killed over 1,000 people in Mississippi since officials first began keeping statistics in 1916.

"When the practice tornado warning is issued, we are asking that people note the time they first hear the warning and from what source," Wagner said.

"We are also encouraging them to take the same kind of action they would take in the case of a real tornado warning. The few minutes it will take to participate will give Mississippians a good idea whether they are prepared to deal with an actual tornado threat," he said.

In some areas, local civil defense units will activate sirens, however, that decision is left with the local officials, Wagner said.

Peak tornado season extends from February until May, but the weather service warns that tornadoes may strike at any time.

FELICITY STREET FIRES - Woods fires jumped across Felicity Street in the Cedar Point area of Bay St. Louis Monday, driven by high winds and fueled by dry bush and pine needles. Fire officials are urging residents to exercise extra caution due to the highly flammable nature of dry vegetation in the area at present. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Fires.....

CORDING TO LIZANA.

"I wish to thank the residents of the area involved for their cooperation and understanding of our attack of the problem fire. Our main concern was the saving of the threatened homes. We appreciate the assistance from telephone calls alerting us to trouble spots as the fire broke through," Lizana commented.

The fire jumped Dunbar in the vicinity of Boardman but was quickly brought under control in that spot, according to Lizana.

The fire was reported by Bay Policemen Harris Boudreaux and Alvin Favre on a routine patrol at 12:15 p.m. and firemen stayed on the scene until 5:30 p.m.

"The three fire trucks had to return to fire plugs numerous times to refill, we used many thousands of gallons of water. We tried to keep our trucks as full as possible because we did not want to have a house threatened and no water in our fire trucks," Lizana emphasized.

The woods fire was hard to reach because of water in many areas and a lack of roads. Firemen used water and flappers when the fires reached an area accessible to them, firemen say.

The fire was of undetermined origin, Lizana reported, but urged residents to be very careful with fires because this is a bad season.

The Paradise Point section of Cedar Point Tuesday had a woods fire requiring two fire trucks and six Bay Firemen a couple of hours to bring under control.

Also Tuesday, there was another woods fire by Joe's Bayou Road which three Bay firemen were able to control with flaps.

A grass fire threatening a mobile home in Bayside Park was reported Tuesday afternoon.

Chief Lizana reports he has three regular firemen on duty at all times, but when there is a fire the regulars and volunteers all report whenever possible.

All area fire departments, under a mutual agreement, cover and aide each other during emergencies.

Waveland Fire Department checked a woods fire late Monday night at Buccaneer State Park.

There was a fire in Shoreline Park, another in Spring Wood Park and another one at Bayside Park Tuesday night.

Two fires were reported in the vicinity of the back gate of Diamondhead and were brought under control by the fire department there.

proximately four or five applications for the loans have been received by her department, but added no decisions will be made as to who receives the grants until all applications have been received.

Owners of properties listed on the National Register of Historic Places either individually or as part of a historic district are eligible to apply for the grant-in-aid funds, Ms. Williams reported.

The deadline for submitting applications for the funds for fiscal year 1981 is June 1, she continued.

"After a property is declared eligible for matching funds, the State Historic Preservation officer and the Department of Archives and History Board of Trustees transfer the allocated funds to the property owner," Ms. Williams explained.

"In fiscal year 1980 the Department of Archives and History distributed grants in the amount of $373,142 to 18 projects. Funds were awarded to 14 of those projects for acquisition and development and the other four for survey and planning," she continued.

"Some 100 applicants requested $2,538,984 in the grant-in-aid program for fiscal year 1980," she added.

Ms. Williams said unusual or historically significant architecture should be brought to the department's attention in a space on the application labeled "additional comments."

"Anything which is historically significant in the architecture will help us in determining whether the project is worthy," Ms. Williams said Monday.

"We like to assist in projects which are historically significant to the community," she added.

For more information concerning the grant-in-aid program, write to the Grants Administrator, Division of Historic Preservation, Mississippi Department of Archives and History, P.O. Box 571, Jackson, Miss., 39205.

Agriculture in Atlanta, Georgia said Tuesday unless Congress appropriates the necessary funds to keep the food stamp program in the black, a nationwide suspension of benefits will take place June 1.

"The entire program will close down unless Congress designates the needed funds," Gregory said.

"Hopefully, Congress will appropriate these funds before the program is suspended," he added.

In his letter to the states, Agriculture Secretary Bergland explained the circumstances leading to the predicament which the program currently faces.

"The food stamp program is running out of money," Bergland said.

"The legislative ceiling on expenditures for fiscal year 1980 was set at $6.189 billion. That figure, established by Congress in 1977, was based on predictions that unemployment would average 5.7 percent in fiscal year 1980 and food prices would increase 13 percent over the three year period from fiscal 1977 to 1980," he continued.

"Each one percent increase in unemployment adds from 750,000 to one million people to the program, while a one percent increase in inflation adds $68 million to food stamp costs," Bergland explained.

An extremely tight Congressional schedule and requirement of the budgetary process complicates the situation, Bergland explained.

"Although the Senate has approved legislation to remove the cap on food spending and the House Agriculture Committee completed its work on the measure last week, action will still be needed on the House floor and in the Appropriations Committees of both House of Congress," Bergland added.

But the actual appropriation of additional funds for the program may not be possible unless Congress passes a third budget resolution for the current fiscal year.

Anita Brown of Washington, D.C., a staff assistant to Representative Thomas Foley of Washington State and head of the House Agriculture Committee, said the third resolution will occur in mid-May.

"However, a great amount of pressure from President Jimmy Carter and the secretary of agriculture may expedite the appropriation of those funds," Brown said Tuesday.

"The Agriculture Committee passed authorization and earmarked funds for the food stamp program, but the problem now is getting a third budgetary resolution passed by the House and Senate," she continued.

"There is no money in the current budget resolution," she added.

However, an analyst with the Budgetary Committee, headed by Representative Robert N. Jaiamo (D-Conn.), said Tuesday there is no official schedule for passage of the third resolution.

"We have no official schedule, but we hope to move this resolution faster than we normally would," the analyst said Tuesday.

"The resolution has to be approved by two Congressional bodies, and the House will take longer because there is more debate in passage of the bill," she added.

The analyst said Congress will approve funds for the upcoming four fiscal years this term, a change from previous approval of two years funding.

"There is no way we could make a public schedule for passage of the resolution, but the chairman of this committee is expected to make a decision by the end of the week," the spokesman said Tuesday.

In Bergland's letter to the governors, he warns "reductions in food stamp benefits will be ordered if, at any time before May 15, Congress indicates additional funding will not be provided."

Bergland estimated about 19.6 million people received food stamp benefits in November, 1979.

The average benefits in that month were $32.70 per person, or 36 cents per meal, the agriculture secretary reported.

GUARDSMAN RECRUIT-Lisa Alexander, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Marek Sr. of Bay St. Louis, signs her enlistment papers as Bay St. Louis Recruiting Officer Robert Gavagule gives instructions. Ms. Alexander, a junior at Bay High School, is the first female inductee in 15 years, according to Gavagule. She will attend basic training for seven weeks between her junior and senior years, and will complete advance training following graduation from school. During the time between basic and advance training she will attend monthly drills with the unit at the Bay St. Louis Army. (Staff photo-Rich Adams)

Three Hancock Vo-Tech students place in District IV competition

Students from the Pearl River Junior College, Hancock County Vo-Tech Center participated in the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) District IV Competition held on recently at the Jackson County Campus of Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College at Gautier, Ms. Seven schools participated in competitive skill events.

The following students took part in the competition: Steve Farve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edward Farve of Kiln. Farve is a student in the Electricity Trades Department, and also is a student at Bay Senior High School. He placed first in the Electrical Trades Competition.

Judge Flood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Judge Flood, Sr. of Bay St. Louis. He is a student in the Building Trades Department, and is also a student at Bay Senior High. Flood placed third in the Masonry Trades Competition.

Anthony Holden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Holden of Kiln. Holden is a student of Hancock North Central. He placed third in the Masonry Trade Department as a masonry helper.

Wayne Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson of Bay St. Louis. He is a student in the Welding Trades Department, and is also a student at Hancock North Central.

Medals were presented to the winners at an awards ceremony at the conclusion of the day's competition. Other club members who attended the District events as delegates were David Rush, Alvin Glover, Tina Piazza, and John Cranmar, Club Advisor.

Because of their achievement in District

Competition, Farve, Flood, and Holden will represent the Hancock Vo-Tech Center VICA Club in State Competition, to be held in Jackson on April 17 and 18.

The club will be holding fund raising events which will include a candy sale to help send the delegates and competitors to Jackson. If they place in State, they will have the opportunity to go to Atlanta, Georgia in August.

Earned income credit explained

Working parents who earned income and adjusted gross income for 1979 was less than $10,000 and had a child living with them may now be eligible to receive up to $500 in earned income credit, the Internal Revenue Service reported.

In order to claim the credit, eligible persons must file a return even if they owe no tax.

The credit is based both on their earnings and adjusted gross income. For income over $6,000, the credit declines on a sliding scale and phases out completely once a person's income reaches $10,000.

The new changes also allows individuals to receive advance payments of the credit each payday. Qualifying persons should request Form W-5 "Earned Income Credit Advance Payment Certificates" from their employer.

See page 2 of Federal Tax Instructions for details about the earned income credit or call the IRS toll-free number listed in the local telephone directory.

Additional information on the credit is available in the free IRS Publication 596, "Earned Income Credit," which may be obtained by filling out the order blank in the tax package, or by calling the IRS number listed in the local telephone directory. If more convenient, it can also be picked up at most IRS offices.

Poetry Society entry deadline nears

Mississippi poets can enter their work in five categories for the 1980 Mississippi Poetry Society Contest.

All Mississippi residents and members in good standing of the Mississippi Poetry Society living outside of the state are eligible to enter the contest.

Winners will be announced during the Mississippi Poetry Workshop and Festival at The University of Mississippi April 19-20.

Categories are Shakespearean sonnet, free verse of 24 lines or less, lyric on the wonders of nature, rhymed iambic pentameter of 24 lines or less, and an open category of 20 lines or less.

Awards for first place will be awarded in all categories except the open category which will have awards for first, second and third place. A special President's Award will be given to the best poem submitted regardless of category.

Each poet may submit only one poem in each category. Entries must be typed and double spaced on one side of an 8 1/2 x 11 sheet of white paper.

Two copies of each entry should be submitted.

Contestant's name and address and the title or first line of the poem should be typed on a separate sheet of paper and attached to the entry.

A $2 entry fee must accompany each poem.

Only unpublished and unawarded poems will be considered.

Poets retain all rights, but winning entries will be published in the contest issue of the Mississippi Poetry Society Journal.

The editors also reserve the right to publish non-winning poems unless the poet footnotes the entry to the contrary.

Deadline for entries is March 15. Entries should be mailed to Jack Fenwick, contest chairman, Mississippi Poetry Society, 505 Valley Road, Kosciusko, Miss. 39090.

Retired Federal Employees plan spring trip

Ms. Ruth Warder, president of the state federation National Association of Retired Federal Employees will be guest speaker at a March meeting of Gulf Breeze Chapter No. 1571 of the association.

She will be accompanied by the federation secretary, Ms. Bernice Mitchell.

Ms. Woodrow Owen, program chairman, will report on final arrangements for a spring Bahama Islands cruise.

The luncheon meeting will be at Holiday Inn on East Beach in Gulfport at 11 a.m. Friday, March 7.

Federal retirees and federal employees 50 years or older with at least 5 years of service are welcome to attend the luncheon meeting and are encouraged to join the Gulf Breeze Chapter, according to Mildred G. Lawson, chapter spokeswoman.

Three Headstart Centers open pre-registration Mon.

Hancock County's three Headstart programs are conducting pre-registration beginning Monday and continuing through April 9 from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Centers involved include Bay-Waveland Headstart, St. Rose Elementary campus, Necaise Street, Bay St. Louis; Catahoula Headstart, Hwy. 43; and Mt. Zion Headstart, Pearlring.

Children four and five years of age and certain three-year-olds are eligible to participate. Also eligible are children who will be six after Sept. 1, 1980, and before Jan. 1, 1981.

Handicapping conditions do not prevent a child from participating in Headstart, according to Sullivan Bell, Headstart director.

Family income must fall below welfare poverty guidelines, Bell said. Children from families whose incomes are above those guidelines will be registered if space permits, he added.

Children already enrolled should also pre-register if they are not graduating from Headstart this year, Bell noted.

A certified copy of the child's birth certificate; medicare number if eligible for that service; immunization record; and proof of annual family income are required for registration.

For information, call the Bay-Waveland Center at 467-7841; the Catahoula Center at 253-7312; or the Pearlring Center at 533-7885.

IRS tightens fuel tax exemptions

Taxpayers can no longer deduct state and local taxes imposed on gasoline, diesel, or other motor fuels, the Internal Revenue Service says.

However, persons who itemize their deductions may still claim other expenses incurred when using their automobile for business, charitable, medical and, in some instances, moving purposes according to the IRS.

Those who keep records of actual costs may claim operating expenses and fixed expenses, such as depreciation and insurance, for business use of their automobile.

Instead of claiming actual expenses, taxpayers may use an optional mileage allowance method. Taxpayers can deduct 18.5 cents for each mile driven for business purposes, and eight cents per mile for charitable, medical, or moving expenses.

In all instances, parking and toll fees may be claimed in addition to the mileage rate.

Information concerning automobile deductions appears in the instructions accompanying the tax forms, IRS noted.

Consumer specialist recommends household furnishings inventory

MONEY TALKS
By NORINE BARNES
Have you made inventory of household furnishings, equipment and other personal possessions?

The inventory will include the date items were acquired and their cost or value at the time you acquired them.

This listing provides a record for insurance purposes and owner identification in case of loss or theft. An inventory also can help determine the amount of insurance needed to adequately cover possessions.

If a loss is not covered by an insurance plan, these records help prove your loss for income tax purposes.

To compile a household inventory, start with Extension Publication No. 633, "Inventory of Household."

Start at one point in the room and go around the room, listing each item. As you do so, note its purchase price and date.

For your financial plan, you also may want to find out how much each item would cost to replace at current prices. If you know how long items normally last, you can plan ahead for replacing them as they wear out.

It is also helpful to include model numbers and serial numbers, brand name, dealer's name, and a brief description of each item (color, size, style).

As additional protection in case of burglary, you may want to have identification numbers stamped or engraved on personal property.

Check with your insurance agent, the county sheriff's office, or your local police department to see if they sponsor an identification program.

If possible, take pictures or slides of each room or location where household possessions are. This will make identification or replacement easier.

Pictures and detailed listings are especially important for unusual or expensive items. Close-up pictures of special collections, silver, jewelry, and antiques are recommended.

Ask your homeowner's or renter's insurance agent if any additional information would be required to settle a claim. The agent may have a household inventory form they prefer you to use.

Read insurance policies carefully to know your responsibilities when filing a claim.

Make several copies of your household inventory. One copy with pictures should be kept in a safe place, away from your home, such as in a safety deposit box.

A second copy of the written inventory can be kept in a convenient place at home.

Don't forget to update your inventory, especially when you make major purchases.

Students should apply for summer jobs early

The Office of Placement Services at the University of Southern Mississippi advises high school, junior college and university students who are looking for summer jobs to plan ahead and apply early.

"Do not wait. Apply early," said Carl Lawrence, director of Placement at USM. "Early means from six to eight months in some cases."

"In many cases local businesses do not know what their summer or part time employment situation will be, but it won't hurt to let an employer know that you are interested and are willing to work," said Carolyn Howell, director of the Student Employment Office at USM.

Both Lawrence and Howell agreed it is wise to assess personal skills and brush up on the things that one does well before applying for a job.

A resume is not necessary for most part time jobs, but a short summary of prior work experience and skills may enhance the possibility of employment.

"Don't give up. Maintain your enthusiasm and be persistent," Lawrence said. "Being at the right place at the right time is important, but often you can make your own luck. Get your name in early."

IRS to collect tax on refunds

Taxpayers receiving a refund or credit in 1979 for state and local income taxes paid in 1978 or a prior year may be required to report the money as income on their federal tax return, the Internal Revenue Service reminds taxpayers.

The IRS notes that taxpayers who, in an earlier year, claimed itemized deductions in excess of their actual state or local tax liability must report their state or local refund as income.

Any refund received in 1979 of a 1978 tax that was deducted on a 1978 return should be reported on line 11 of the 1979 Form 1040.

Federal income tax refunds are not considered income to the taxpayer by the IRS.

Bell Telephone installs drop box in Bay St. Louis

DROP BOXES — Checking one of the recently installed telephone "Drop Boxes" is C. G. Rowell, Supervisor of Installation with South Central Bell Telephone Company. A similar box is located at the phone company in Bay St. Louis.

BY RICH ADAMS

South Central Bell reported more than 3,100 unrecovered telephones in the Gulf Coast District last year because some customers forgot to return phones or arrange for an installer to pick sets up when disconnecting service.

Franklin Kyle, District Manager for South Central Bell, said approximately 30,000 residential telephones were not recovered in Mississippi in 1979.

"Telephone 'drop boxes' have been installed in Bay St. Louis and other Gulf Coast cities," according to Kyle. "When a customer moves or has service disconnected for any reason, the telephones should be returned to us."

To make it easier for customers to return the sets, telephone "drop boxes" have been placed in locations with customer convenience as the primary consideration.

The boxes have been placed at telephone company buildings and central offices so they can be identified as telephone company property and can be emptied frequently to avoid breakage.

The Bay St. Louis box is located at 106 St. Francis Street, and another box in Pass Christian is located at the central office there.

Kyle said South Central Bell is considering installing a drop box in the Diamondhead subdivision to accommodate customers there.

The district manager explained a box is not needed in the unincorporated area of Hancock County north of Bay St. Louis because turnover of homes in that area is not as frequent as that of a metropolitan area.

"People in upper Hancock County may take their phones to Poyune where there is a drop box," Kyle said.

There is currently no drop box in the Waveland area.

"Some of our customers apparently don't understand that the phones South Central installs in their homes actually belong to the telephone company," Kyle said. "When a customer moves or has service disconnected for any reason, the telephones should be returned to us."

"We believe most of our customers don't intentionally take our telephones," he said. "But often, through forgetfulness or lack of time during a move, phones are left behind, usually locked up where we can't get to them."

Kyle said South Central Bell installers never enter an occupied or unoccupied residence without permission. After three or four unsuccessful attempts to retrieve sets in an unoccupied residence, the phone company often is unable to recover those phones.

South Central Bell gives its customers an extra incentive to return their telephones when phone service is moved or disconnected, according to Kyle.

"Customers moving from one residence to another within a town or city have several options," Kyle said. "Those with modular wiring—that is, wiring which enables customers to easily and quickly plug in and unplug phones using jacks—can simply unplug their sets and take them to their new residence. Customers without modular wiring in their homes can snip their phone wire close to the wall connection and move their sets to the new location. In either case, the customer will receive a $4 credit on his or her phone bill," Kyle said.

People who are moving out of a particular city or town altogether can receive the $4 credit on their final bills by dropping off their phones at one of South Central Bell's Phone Center or in one of the drop boxes before leaving town.

The Phone Center Store in Biloxi is located at the Edgewater Mall, in Pascagoula at 1126 Jackson Avenue and in Poyune at 321 North Curran Avenue.

Whether the customer is moving across town or out of town, the $4 credit does not apply if the phone company must dispatch an installer out to a residence to pick up telephone sets, according to Kyle.

"Our customers and the telephone company benefit if the old telephone sets are taken to the new residence, dropped off at a Phone Center Store or placed in a drop box. The customer gets a $4 credit and we save money since we recover our sets, and without having to dispatch an installer. This frees an installer for other installation work," said Kyle.

Kyle said South Central Bell's Gulf Coast District customers seem to like the company's policy. Since last year, approximately 15,129 customers have turned in their phones and received a credit for doing so, and the drop boxes are proving to be very popular.

Echoes

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stieffell and children of Harahan, La., spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taconi.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scianna and daughters Linda and Julie spent Saturday with their son Paul in Jackson.

They were joined by his fiancée Miss Paige McCalmon and her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. T. McCalmon of Leawood, Kans.

Fort Pickens reopens Mar. 1

The Fort Pickens Area of Gulf Islands National Seashore at Pensacola Beach, Fla., will reopen to visitors March 1.

"A temporary shell road has been completed to replace 4.5 miles of road extensively damaged by Hurricane Frederic in September," said Frank Pridmore, superintendent.

"Paving the temporary shell road is scheduled to be complete by December 1. In the meantime, a 25 mph speed limit will be in effect on this temporary road to prevent accidents and avoid possible vehicle damage because of rough spots," he continued.

The temporary road does not have stabilized shoulders. Pridmore emphasizes, "Parking will not be allowed for the first five miles into the Fort Pickens Area."

A large parking area is available near Battery Langdon (about five miles from the entrance).

Visitors may gain beach access to the eastern portion of the Fort Pickens Area by parking at the western end of Pensacola Beach and walking west or by driving to the parking area across from Battery Langdon and walking east.

The only building destroyed by the hurricane was the entrance station at the east boundary of the Fort Pickens Area.

A new facility to replace it will be constructed later this year, about a quarter of a mile west of the old entrance.

In the meantime, a temporary entrance station will soon be placed near the boundary to collect entrance fees and provide information.

Campground registration has been moved to a trailer near Battery Langdon, east of the campground.

With the reopening of the road, the group and family campgrounds and campground store at Fort Pickens will again be open to serve visitors.

Individual campsite fees are $3 for tent campsites and $4 for sites with electrical hookups.

These campsites are available on a first-come, first-served basis; no reservations are accepted.

Fort Pickens and the natural history and history museums will be open daily to visitors.

Tours of Fort Pickens will be at 1 p.m. on weekdays and 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. on weekends.

The fishing pier was extensively damaged by the hurricane and will remain closed until rebuilding is complete.

The four-wheel drive route to the Pensacola Pass area will continue to be closed because extensive beach erosion has left the beach route impassable, the superintendent explained.

Girl Scout cookie delivery begins

"The cookies are here!" announced Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council volunteers throughout South Mississippi this week.

Kitty Reid, assistant executive director of the council who is coordinating the cookie sale, said if cookies were ordered in January, delivery may be expected before March 8.

This marks the twentieth annual cookie sale for Girl Scouts in the fifteen county area of the Gulf Pines Council.

Proceeds from the sale have helped finance many of the council's needs. Cookie profits helped build Camp Iti Kana, have provided funds for troop activities, special training for adults and the girls, expansion of programs and council-sponsored events.

The annual cookie sale is one of the biggest and best organized volunteer endeavors in Girl Scouting and is the primary fund-raising activity of Gulf Pines Council.

Interbake Foods who bakes the cookies works closely with the council on transportation details, training for sales, and provides materials necessary for the sale; the Mississippi Army National Guard and Air National Guard deliver the cartons of cookies to designated cookie stations in many of the council's neighborhoods.

The Neighborhood Cookie chairman coordinates the sale within the Neighborhood of Scouting with troop leaders and girls.

Mrs. Reid added that the council was pleased to have the sale heralded recently in a Gulf Coast newspaper as a "Marketing success" wherein

District Five nurses meeting tonight

District No. 5 Nurses' Association will have its monthly meeting at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Highway 90, Gulfport, Ms., at 7:00 p.m. tonight.

Legislative Bills which are of grave concern to nursing will be addressed.

Guest speakers from William Carey College and University of Southern Mississippi will speak to nurses about how their institutions are providing registered nurses with opportunities to acquire a BSN. Future plans related to this endeavor as well as imminent curriculum changes will be addressed. All RNs, members and non-members are invited to attend.

There will be a board meeting at 6:00 p.m. just prior to the general meeting.

OLD BEN FRANKLIN SAID IT CONSERVATION MEANS INDEPENDENCE

Old Ben Franklin didn't say "conservation", really. He said "savings."

If all amounts to the same thing, then and now.

The more we save or conserve our natural resources, the more we'll have in the bank. The more we take care in using our vital fuels, the longer they will last us as a nation. And the longer we use our own resources, the less we'll have to depend on anyone or anything else.

And there's another important fact.

Natural gas is no longer cheap. The days of "five-cent gas" have long gone and will never return. But while the cost is rising, producers are investing their increased revenues in an effort to make more natural gas available. And that's important to you.

Ben Franklin said "save." With natural gas going upward in price, conservation means saving very real dollars. Natural gas that is not wasted is money in the bank.

The cautious words of people like Franklin will endure forever. True wisdom never dies. Save. Think about it. The fathers of this nation left us good advice.

A Call To Sports Hunters

Slob hunters, who ignore the rights of land owners as much as they ignore the general rules and regulations of hunting, are a major reason why anti-hunting sentiment is on the increase and more land is being posted.

Also fanning anti-hunting flames are groups such as Friends of Animals, which has recently distributed a pamphlet ridiculing hunters and their lack of sharp-shooting skill is responsible for much maiming and tremendous suffering in wild animals.

If hunters want to preserve their sport in an increasingly intolerant world, they must meet these and other attacks with a sportsmanlike attitude. Sports hunters must be the first to insist slob hunters be prosecuted. Sports hunters should be the first to agree to marksmanship testing before a hunting license is issued — after all, such a process can weed out those who are presently giving hunting a bad name. Also, common sense suggests nobody — motorist, pilot or hunter — should be given a license to operate a dangerous instrument in a public area until he or she is proven capable of properly controlling that instrument.

These are burdens that must be carried by the sports hunter because few others are willing to share the load. Protectionist groups certainly don't want hunters to improve their image. And state game commissions are eager to sell as many licenses as possible because federal law requires their salaries come from the sale of those licenses.

It is also in the sports hunter's interest to stay out of being associated with trappers. Trappers are businessmen and the tools of their trade hurt sports hunters in two ways.

First, leghold traps, which most trappers use, are even more brutal than the maiming shots of inaccurate slob hunters. Leghold traps, unlike the sports hunter's eye, are not selective. They snap on whatever touches them — and that's like leaving a loaded shotgun in the woods with a trip wire tied to the trigger.

Second, leghold traps are a hazard to hunters themselves. South Carolina hunters, after losing many dogs to hidden leghold traps, led the fight for their state legislature's ban on the trap and now there's a $500 penalty for anyone who uses such a trap in that state. Mississippi hunters are presently pushing for a similar ban in their state.

Nationally, there's legislation pending (H.R. 1297, S. 425) in Congress that would ban the interstate shipment of furs caught in states that haven't banned the leghold trap. It would also ban fur commerce with foreign countries that haven't banned the trap. This legislation deserves the sports hunter's support.

It isn't in the sports hunter's interest to defend trappers, even though the trappers make a great effort to associate themselves with hunters. With this arrangement, trappers can only buy a little more time, and hunters can only lose a little more credibility. Trappers claim that once protectionist groups knock them out, hunters will be the next target. In fact, it was an alliance of sports hunters and humane groups that pushed for the trapping ban in South Carolina.

If a sports hunter wants to keep his sport, he is going to have to disassociate himself from the slob hunter, the poor marksman and the trapper.

24. In Memoriam

IN MEMORY OF

WALTER YARBOROUGH

Sadly missed on your Birthday
February 25

I am home in Heaven, dear ones;
Oh, so happy and so bright!
There is perfect joy and beauty
In this everlasting light.
All the pain and grief is over,
Every restless tossing passed;
I am now at peace forever,
Safely home in Heaven at last.

Did you wonder I so calmly
Trod the valley of the Shade?
Oh! But Jesus' love illumined
Every dark and fearful glade.
And He came Himself to meet me
In that way so hard to tread;
And with Jesus' arm to lean on,
Could I have one doubt or dread?
Then you must not grieve so sorely,
For I love you dearly still;
Try to look beyond earth's shadows,
Pray to trust our Father's will.
There is work still waiting for you,
So you must not idly stand;
Do it now, while life remaineth -
You shall rest in Jesus' land.
When that work is all completed,
He will gently call you home;
Oh, the rapture of that meeting,
Oh, the joy to see you come!

Sadly missed by Sons and daughters

AT HOME—A variety of pigeons in Al Muller's loft behind his Bay St. Louis home. In competition, these pigeons will reach speeds 50-60 miles per hour in a race back to their loft and not stop for food or water until they return home. Homing pigeon races range from 50-500 miles in length.

TAKE OFF—A racing pigeon flies from the roof of Al Muller's home in Bay St. Louis to the loft behind his house. Muller exercises his birds 15-20 minutes every day and the birds usually fly 10-15 miles from the loft during an exercise period. The birds fly in formation at treetop level and return to the loft after a few minutes of rest on Muller's roof.

Bay men kindle pigeon racing interest

OFFICIAL CLOCK—The most expensive single item a homing pigeon breeder owns is an official racing clock. After each pigeon returns after a race, a band is taken from the pigeon, placed in a compartment in the clock and the time is recorded on a roll of paper inside the clock. Al Muller of Bay St. Louis obtained his second hand, German made racing clock from a friend who raced pigeons. The antique clock weighs several pounds because all of the working parts inside the oak case are made of solid brass. Muller says a new clock costs several hundred dollars.

KING OF THE LOFT—This fierce looking red pigeon is strictly for looks. Al Muller explains this beautifully marked cock is a father figure (a stabilizing factor) in his flock of racers and has very low intelligence. This bird always stays near the nest and doesn't fly far from the loft, reinforcing the other bird's homing nature.

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Renewed local interest in organized homing pigeon racing has been sparked by two Bay St. Louis members of the Long Beach Pigeon Club who are now seeking the establishment of a Hancock County pigeon racing organization.

Al Muller, 29, and his wife Terri, moved from Kenner to Bay St. Louis about a year ago bringing several prize pigeons he raced while living in Louisiana.

Due to their trained homing ability Muller uses his Louisiana birds only for breeding young racing homers which are trained to return to his new bird loft behind his Bay St. Louis home.

"The breeders must be confined to the loft or they might try to return to Kenner. I also have breeders from all over the U.S. and Europe which might try to return home if released," Muller says.

One of Muller's friends, Harold Ott of Bay St. Louis, also became interested in the sport and in October began raising young pigeons, he obtained from Muller, which he hopes will be ready for the fall racing season.

"This is a very inexpensive sport, with the only real expense being a special racing clock used to record the birds exact arrival time in a race and a loft to protect pigeons from the weather," Ott says. "I simply closed off the back of a tool shed for my pigeons," Ott adds.

"Pigeon racing is a family sport and is a good sport for someone to conduct in the back yard," Muller says.

"Harold and I are the only Hancock County pigeon breeders who are in a pigeon racing club. There are probably 12 or so people in the area breeding pigeons who simply don't know a club exists," Muller states.

"This is an excellent sport for teenagers as well as retired people and we'll help anyone who wants to get started in this sport," Ott says.

"The whole idea behind pigeon racing is that it's a very friendly sport. When you get to know other people who have pigeons they may offer to trade or breed a bird they may have with one of yours. Also, if one person has a champion pigeon he may offer you some of the chicks of that pigeon," Muller explains.

Muller says the Long Beach organization is one of several clubs in the Golden Gulf Coast Combine which consists of pigeon clubs along the Mississippi and Alabama Gulf Coast.

In September and October the combine sponsors ten 'fall series' races for pigeons under one year of age.

"These young pigeons are raced at distances of 100, 150, 200, 250 and 300 miles. A truck from the pigeon club combine collect's birds from everyone in the Gulf Coast clubs and releases them at one point which is usually near Hattiesburg, Mount Olive, Jackson or Durant," Muller states.

"The birds are collected on a Saturday evening, released at dawn on a Sunday and streak home at speeds up to 60 miles per hour," Ott explains.

"With gasoline as expensive as it is today the clubs in the combine have agreed to schedule races together to save on travel expenses," Muller adds.

Muller explains the distance between designated release points and each member's pigeon loft is calculated to within two feet utilizing orbiting satellites and computer calculations.

"When you join our organization two club officers will come to your home, measure how many feet your loft is from a fronting street and with official city maps combined with the computer calculations, plot the exact location of your bird loft," Muller explains.

Muller is preparing to race in the April and May races which are for birds one year and older.

"These older, more mature pigeons are sent by air freight to fly 200, 300, 400 and 500 mile races. The release points for these races are in Tennessee and Kentucky. A good racer can fly the 500 miles from Kentucky to the Gulf Coast in a day," Ott explains.

"Pigeons that win such long distance races receive certificates and maybe a trophy. These long distance winners are highly prized by their owners," Ott adds.

"The better the racing pigeons, the lower they fly," Muller says.

"In a race, birds fly anywhere from treetop level to three or four feet above the ground. In fact, sometimes along I-10 over Lake Pontchartrain I've seen birds racing from Hattiesburg to New Orleans between the twin bridges," Muller reports.

"In a long race a bird may lose 50 percent of its body weight because the pigeon never stops, even for water, until he finishes the race," Ott says.

Muller says a bird can be killed in a race by flying into manmade obstacles like telephone wires, by hitting natural obstructions like trees or by being thrown to the ground during a violent thunderstorm.

"One time I saw one of my prize-winning birds run into a telephone wire and feathers went all over, but because he is a champion bird with incredible determination he still continued the race home. I've also had birds return with pine needles in their feathers from running into trees," Muller explains.

"When I lived in Kenner I had a bird that flew through a thunderstorm and beat all of the other birds back by about 30 minutes," Muller says.

"Hawks usually don't bother the birds unless one is straggling behind and is a bit slow," Muller adds.

Muller says occasionally a hunter will mistake a pigeon for a dove and shoot one.

"If you have a truly outstanding pigeon, like a bird with enough determination to fly through a bad storm, you usually retire the bird for breeding, just like a champion race horse," Muller says.

"Pigeons are pedigreed just any other type of fine animal and can be raced usually for three to five years. Cocks will breed for about 12-14 years while a hen will breed for nine to ten years. They are usually bred either during January and February or March and April so their young will be ready to race in fall or spring competition," Muller explains.

"What I really enjoy about pigeon racing is the satisfaction in having fine breeders. Each bird is an individual and you begin to recognize the personalities of the pigeon. You also get to know each bird's flying abilities and limitations," Muller says.

"When you're raising the babies usually the ones that may look like champions are not and the bird that you don't notice turns out to be a champion," Muller adds.

"Certain birds are better at long races and some are do better in short races," Ott reports.

"There is also excitement when you're waiting for a bird to return during a race, but if the telephone rings you know its a fellow club member calling to tell you his bird got in," Muller says.

"We have competition between members of each group as well as competition between groups. At the end of each fly season we have an awards banquet," Muller explains.

"One of the main things we stress in our organization is for our sport to be an asset to the community. Each group encourages members to landscape around their lofts and the pigeons don't bother neighbors because they're only let out of the loft to fly for 15 or 20 minutes a day for exercise, then the birds return to the loft," Ott reports.

Ott and Muller hope to encourage others in Hancock County to become involved in homing pigeon racing with an ultimate goal of forming a Hancock County club.

For information about this unusual sport contact Muller at 467-2740, Ott at 467-9587 or Charles Lee, club secretary at 864-5503.

POSING PIGEON—A young homing pigeon roosts in Al Muller's loft. Muscle development causes a racing pigeon's wings to protrude out in front of the bird's chest, differing them from their sidewalk cousins. The young racer wears an identifying tag on one leg for a lifetime, which can be 15-20 years.

INCUBATES EGGS—One of Al Muller's pigeon breeding hens roosts on her nest. Below the bird's head is one of the eggs which are approximately one and a half inches long and about one inch in diameter. The pair of pigeons will alternate incubating their eggs and protect the nest from intruders.

BABY RACERS - The father of two baby pigeons, in Al Muller's bird loft, closely guards his siblings from intruders. If another pigeon or human comes near the young chicks the parent guarding the nest will repeatedly strike the intruder with a wing, resembling karate chops.

TYPICAL TAGS—Some of the typical homing pigeon tags, made from aluminum or plastic, worn by Al Muller's racers. Muller says the ring-like tags are put on the young chicks and are worn for the bird's lifetime. On each bird Muller places a ring with his bird racing club number and another ring with his name and address.

HELPFUL WIFE—Al Muller's wife Terri feeds some of their homing pigeons in the loft behind their Bay St. Louis home. Muller says pigeon racing is a family sport and is a good sport for someone to conduct in the back yard.

St. Rose basketball tournament begins Friday

Competition begins tomorrow in the St. Rose Semi-Pro Double Elimination Basketball Tournament as the defending champion New Orleans Gumbo fight 23 other men's teams in an attempt to retain their crown for the third year in a row.

Seven women's teams will participate in the annual event, conducted in the St. Rose Rosenthal Gymnasium in Bay St. Louis.

In ladies' competition Friday night the Pass Christian All-Stars play the defending champion Gulfport All-Stars at 6:30 p.m., followed by the Picaune squad against the Ladner's All-Stars at 8 p.m.

At 9:30 Friday night the Bay St. Louis All-Stars meet the Lucedale Hawks to close competition for that day.

Saturday at 11 a.m. the mens competition begins as the Bay St. Louis All-Stars meet the Phillips All-Stars.

That afternoon at 12:30 p.m. the Mobile Blazers meet the Pass All-Stars, followed at 2 p.m. by a game between the Biloxi Elks against the Moss Point Gunners.

At 3:30 p.m. Saturday the Lucedale Hawks meet the New Orleans Warlords, and at 5 p.m. the ladies resume play as the Picaune All-Stars meet the Pass-Point All-Stars.

At 6:30 p.m. the men take the court as the Biloxi Elks vie against the New Orleans Reed Road Shell.

Mens competition finishes Saturday night at 8 p.m. as the Louisiana Bruins battle the

New Orleans Supersonics.

Sunday at 11 a.m. the New Orleans Heay Heat meet the Moss Point Cobras, followed by a game between the Moss Point Stars and the winner of the Bay Stars and Phillips game Saturday.

At 2 p.m. the New Orleans Lakers meet the winner of the Mobile-Pass match, and at 3:30 p.m. the American Linen squad meets the New Orleans Hustlers.

Ladies' competition returns at 5 p.m. Sunday as the Bay St. Louis All-Stars meet the Pass Christian All-Stars.

The men take the court again Sunday as the Bay Stars meet the winner of the Elks-Gunners game at 6:30 p.m., followed by the New Orleans Gumbo versus the winner of the Lucedale-Warlords match at 8 p.m.

At 9:30 p.m. the New Orleans Hip meet the winner of the Nets and Reed Road Shell team to finalize competition in the first increment of play.

The tournament is sponsored by St. Rose Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis.

Christ Episcopal, OLG vie for first

Christ Episcopal and Our Lady of the Gulf Team No. One, both undefeated in the Bay St. Louis Church League, will vie for undisputed first place tonight at 8:15 p.m. in the Sy Rosenthal Gymnasium as league play continues.

Christ Episcopal defeated First Assembly of God last week 60-50 to remain in a deadlock with OLG No. One,

Summer league meet slated

The Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds Commission will meet March 3 at 7 p.m. to discuss organization of the summer baseball and softball leagues.

Director Billy Rhodes

requests the presence of an officer of each summer baseball and softball league at the meeting, held at the board room in Bay St. Louis City Hall.

"We urge the league officials be prepared to present a brief outline of their summer program and any requests they may have from the commission," Rhodes said.

Rhodes said anyone wishing to form a new league should also be present at the meeting.

Joe Pavolini of the Hancock Boxing Club suffered his first career knockout as an amateur boxer Saturday at the hands of Biloxi's Ralph Tillman in the first round during a bout at the Bay St. Louis Armory.

Tillman and Pavolini were involved in a rematch of their Feb. 9 match in Kiln, in which Tillman won in a close decision.

Midway through the first round in the armory Tillman threw a right hook at the South Mississippi Golden Gloves champion.

Pavolini attempted to duck under the blow, but part of Tillman's glove caught the Hancock pugilist on the jaw and caused him to crash headfirst onto the hard canvas.

Pavolini remained on the mat as the referee began the ten count, but when the downed boxer made no effort to rise, the referee called the bout off and called Dr. Joseph Nodruft to the ring to administer first aid.

Pavolini recovered from the knockout and attempted to get up and continue the fight, but was not allowed to do so by the doctor.

Hancock Head Coach Harvey Mitchell said the knockout was the first in Pavolini's 10 year, 230 fight career.

In the semi-main event, Hancock's Sam Schoonmaker, another 1980 Golden Gloves champion, defeated Marrero's Earl McCarty in a toe-to-toe slugfest.

Both boxers threw punch after punch during all three rounds, staying mainly in the middle of the ring during the bout.

The decision went to Schoonmaker, who clearly dominated the ring in the match.

Mike Stringer defeated Keith Smith of Long Beach for another Hancock victory in their home match.

Mike Venezia of the Hancock Club lost a decision to Robert Elliott of the Biloxi Boxing Club, who clearly dominated the less experienced Hancock pugilist.

Joe Louis Goodman of Pearllington, fighting untouchable with the Hancock squad, lost a surprising upset against a Gulfport opponent with only two previous fights.

Both boxers spent much of the match moving from corner to corner in the ring, but the Gulfport pugilist threw more scoring punches than Goodman.

Ron Pernaciario of the Hancock squad, fighting his first match, lost a decision to a Biloxi fighter.

In exhibition matches, Hancock Boxers Charlie Mitchell, Timmy Bourgeois, and James Bourgeois received valuable experience in the ring.

Dr. Nodruft and Dr. John Levens received thanks from Coach Mitchell for assisting the teams.
